Sheehan quoted in “Justices wade into water wars next week”

E&E News

Partner John Sheehan was quoted in E&E News' article, “Justices wade into water wars next week” on January 5, 2018.

“The Supreme Court next week is poised to wade into two major cases that in part test the role of the federal government in disputes among states over water rights.

In the first case, Texas argues that New Mexico has violated the Rio Grande Compact by diverting water before it reaches the Lone Star State. In the other, Florida is complaining that Georgia's overconsumption has crippled a key oyster fishery.”
