

January 08, 2018

Sheehan quoted in "Some Florida officials optimistic after U.S. Supreme Court arguments in water dispute"

Politico

Partner John Sheehan was quoted in Politico's article, "Some Florida officials optimistic after U.S. Supreme Court arguments in water dispute" on January 8, 2018.

"Some Florida officials hope the oral arguments in the U.S. Supreme Court case over Georgia's water use will mean that the court will order a new hearing instead of heeding a recommendation to dismiss Florida's case.

Florida filed the case in 2013 at the direction of Gov. Rick Scott, who said Georgia's unconstrained water use along the Flint and Chattahoochee rivers was devastating Apalachicola Bay and the families there that depend on oyster harvesting."

To read the entire Politico article, click here.

Related People

John Sheehan

Partner

jasheehan@michaelbest.com

T 202.844.3808

Related Industries

Water

Related Practices

Environmental & Natural Resources

Water