

November 15, 2017

Fritsch & Ziemba quoted in Progressive Dairy's article, "EPA Manure Emission Reporting: Now What?"

Progressive Dairy

Michael Best Attorneys Taylor Fritsch and Leah Ziemba were quoted in Progressive Dairy's article, "EPA Manure Emission Reporting: Now What?" on November 15, 2017.

"The clock struck midnight, but we still don't know when large-herd dairy producers will be required to provide air emission reports related to stored manure.

Livestock producers and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) had sought a 60-day reprieve to meet a court-imposed air emission reporting deadline, originally set for Nov. 15. However, a federal court had not ruled on the extension request as the deadline came and passed.

Michael Best attorneys Leah Ziemba, partner and agribusiness, food and beverage industry group chair, and Taylor Fritsch, associate, outlined reporting requirements during a webinar hosted by the American Dairy Coalition (ADC) on Nov. 13.

To read the more, visit the Progressive Dairy's website here.

Related People

Taylor Fritsch

Associate

tfritsch@michaelbest.com

T 608.257.7471

Leah Ziemba

Partner

lhziemba@michaelbest.com

T 608.283.4420

Related Industries

Agribusiness

Related Practices

Environmental & Natural Resources