Michael Best Partner John Sheehan was quoted in Law360's article, "Environmental Law Cases To Watch In The 2nd Half Of 2018" on July 3, 2018.

"Questions around water law dominate several of the cases environmental law attorneys will be closely following in the second half of 2018, including whether groundwater is subject to permitting and how litigation over the Clean Water Rule will play out, while other important cases touch on the Endangered Species Act and climate change issues.

Here are several cases environmental law attorneys will be keeping a close eye on."
