Practical Tips for NC Employers: Managing School & Childcare Leave Under FFCRA

Gov. Cooper recently announced that North Carolina public schools and charter schools may elect to reopen for in-person instruction as of October 5, 2020. Since the power to reopen falls to each school district, some schools will opt for in-person classes, while others will opt for fully virtual classes or a hybrid approach. Join attorney Ashley Felton as she reviews employer obligations under the FFCRA related to school closures during the COVID-19 pandemic, including how different reopening plans may impact employee FFCRA rights.
